NOTES TO THE EDITOR.

Original Correspondence.

[We do not identify ourselves with the opinions expressed by correspondents.]

To the Editor of THE CROMWELL ARGUS.

SIR.—When half-informed persons meddle with private or public affairs, they generally make a mess of it. The melancholy effusion of your correspondent "Carrick Range" is a case in point. The County only paid £4000 for the Bannockburn Bridge. The balance was paid by the Government to cancel the privilege granted to the proprietors by the late Provincial Government, whereby the County was debauched from erecting a bridge anywhere within two miles of the present one. The Chairman, or rather the County, did not purchase Clyde Bridge at all. It was bought by the Government. And again the Chairman did not select the site of the Bendigo Bridge; neither did he cause the flood which rendered it useless, "washed away" Clyde Bridge, and partially destroyed Bannockburn Bridge. No, Sir, these things were done by a higher authority. So much for the validity of your correspondent's statements.—Yours, &c.,

"THE OLD GENTLEMAN."

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

To the Editor of THE CROMWELL ARGUS.

SIR.—It having come to the ears of the St. Andrew's Church Committee that various erroneous reports are being freely circulated by certain persons respecting the call made on the public for the gift auction, to be held on December 30th, in aid of St. Andrew's Church (Episcopalian), I think it due to our committee and cause to mention the following facts:—No bazaar has been held since midwinter, 1874, in connection with above church: That it was our intention to have appealed to the public last Christmas, but, as is well known, the Roman Catholics had their bazaar: That after a period of nearly seven years we do not think it unreasonable that an appeal should now be made to the public on behalf of our church building, to which repairs are much needed, especially when we find that regular services have been maintained both morning and evening since erection of our church building.—I am, &c.,

W. TALBOA,
Hon. Secretary.

ARROWTOWN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

December 13.

It is reported that the opening for public traffic of the Kawarau, Swiftburn, and Arrow bridges is to be celebrated by a public ceremony, and that the Lake County Council has voted a sum of money for the purpose. Considering that the new piece of road, when the gravelling now in progress is completed, will have cost upwards of £15,000 the work is well worth the honor of such a distinction. On Monday Mr John Flynn was permitted by the courtesy of the contractor, Mr John McCormick, to cross the bridges with a Yankee wagon loaded with five tons of freight, and drawn by six horses, without any oscillation being perceptible. This was the first team which crossed the bridge. The following day Mr Jopp crossed with a similar team, and a like favorable result.

The parsimonious character of the management of the local papers, Arrow Observer and Wakatip Mail, has become more than ever conspicuous during the past few weeks by the stoppage of the Dunedin telegrams, and the reading public has to turn to THE CROMWELL ARGUS for late information from the metropolis.

It appears that a patriarchal Government, however hard up, intends to take good care of us, for, after dismissing our late bailiff, they make the Queenstown one do the ornamental to uphold the pomp and majesty of the law by sending him to the Arrow on court days. The good people of Arrowtown would gladly dispense with this "pomp and majesty," especially when it has to be borrowed, and if the Government would only grant the needful, by keeping the local Receiver's office open, the Arrowites would rest content and be thankful. The expense of bringing over the bailiff from Queenstown would go a long way towards making up the salary of the Gold Receiver here, and the local police might easily do the duty of bailiff at a small annual premium, which would add a welcome item to their present ludicrously small salary. This subject was laid hold of by the Arrow Observer to indulge in its favorite forte of mud throwing, for which there was not the least occasion in the present instance.

A rather bad accident happened to Mr O. Palmer, familiarly known as Old Oliver, on Monday afternoon last. While crossing the Arrow River with his team of pack-horses, the horse he was riding, on getting into deep water, began to plunge, whereby the pack-saddle and load slipped round under the horse's belly, throwing Palmer into the river, which was slightly flooded at the time. Sergeant Brown, who happened to be passing, came to the rescue, and extracted Palmer from his unrelaxed bath, not, however, before he had received a nasty kick from the horse on the thigh. The sufferer was removed to the hospital, and is fast progressing towards recovery.

With the increasing heat of summer, life begins to be infused into the Macetown reefs. The Maryborough Co. is calling for tenders to lay down a tramway from the mine to their battery. The Premier is also calling for tenders for sinking its shaft to the required depth, and the All Nations, and Victor Emmanuel companies are dealing with questions of reorganisation. The mines that have been at full work hitherto continue to progress favorably, but nothing in the shape of a cake will be heard of till Christmas.

At the firing for the District Cup, by our local Volunteers on Saturday last some extraordinary scores were made, the five highest being 73, 69, 67, 67, 67, by which splendid shooting the prize was secured by the local corps, and the final match to decide the Cup contest is likely to come off at the Arrow butts.

At the annual meeting of subscribers to the local Athenaeum held on Saturday, the ordinary routine business on such occasions was gone through. The report read by the secretary, Mr A. Innes, referred in well-chosen language to the important part the institution has borne in the past, and is now fulfilling by being the very soul of the public, political, and social life of the place; while the balance-sheet showed on the right side of the ledger, besides a building fund of £112 lodged in the bank. The institution has been a model in every respect—it has met all the demands made upon it by the public, the Committee has worked hard and honestly, not allowing a single meeting to lapse for want of a quorum.

QUEENSTOWN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

December 11.

As anticipated, the residents of the Upper Shotover had a real good treat on the occasion of the Queenstown band going up to play for them, and too much praise cannot be given to Lieutenant Evans for the handsome manner in which he behaved. At his own cost he supplied each of the bandsmen with a horse to make his journey, and otherwise incurred expense over the affair, and this was done with the laudable object of giving pleasure to others. Sad to relate, however, our old friend the big drum is still up at Maori Point, for it came on to rain on the Sunday morning, and this beautiful old instrument had to be left behind to be forwarded at some future date "with care."

Contrary to expectation, Mr Warren, the owner of the Wakatip Mail, has lodged a petition against the return of Mr Daniel as Mayor on a number of grounds. As the case will be heard here on 20th inst., and in the meantime may be said to be sub judice, I shall not in this letter say anything on the matter before the court. There is another matter, however, that wants referring to, and that is the leading article in the Mail of the 10th inst. It is on the subject of the petition lodged by Mr Warren, and the writer would have the ratepayers believe that the action taken by Mr Warren is on "public grounds," and for "public good," &c.; but a careful perusal of the article shows very clearly that it is written with the idea of making it right for Sir William should a new election be ordered. The article is in very bad taste, and shows how keenly the defeated candidate feels his position. A local appears in the same issue of the Mail attempting to hold our respected Town Clerk, Mr Donne, up to ridicule. Instead of doing so, the general feeling—so far as I can gather—is one of disgust, that the only journal in the place should lower itself for the purpose of venting petty spite on a gentleman universally respected. If a new election is ordered, and the candidates are the same as last time, the result will, no doubt, be the return of Mr Daniel.

We are a smart lot of people up here in the way of business, and we are always doing some clever thing. The latest occurred yesterday at Kingston. The Invercargill train brought up the mail, and the mail van ran right down to where the mail boat was lying; but do you think we wanted that mail? No! we let it go back again, and rest all night at the Elbow, and to-night, when we are all in bed, it will arrive—that is if we don't get awfully clever again.

Talking about Kingston reminds me that there is only Mr Roskrug (late of Upper Shotover) to act as station-master, postmaster, telegraphist, porter, &c., &c. The consequence is that every day the steamers have to lie at the jetty with steam up, and all the men idle, simply and solely because the Government will not employ a boy to tally the goods from the trucks to the steamers. The delay is most annoying to passengers—especially ladies, and the Government ought really to do something. I heard that Government did offer to engage a man if the steamer people would pay half his wages; strange to say this oracle would not work; but then you know we are so clever!

The new machinery got from Melbourne by the Phoenix Co. to save gold from tailings has not turned out so successfully as anticipated, and now the mine, I hear, is to be let on tribute. It is a great pity that the result of Mr Bullen's experiment was not more successful, for other parties were waiting the result to go and do likewise. The Mount Aurum Co. will have a washing up about Christmas, and from appearances it will be a good one. The crushing from the Invincible Co., at head of the Lake, is considered satisfactory, and the talk now is of putting up machinery. A reef claim has been taken up in Butchers' Gully, Upper Shotover, at a place where the oldest inhabitant always knew there was a good paying reef, but was too lazy to go and work it. The sluicing claims keep about the same. The holidays will take place shortly, when we expect to see a number of miners down in town to enjoy themselves.

DUNEDIN GOSSIP.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

December 9.

The race and show week was spoilt by the weather, which, except on one day of the show, was very wretched. Two of our best known hurdle racers came to grief—Scamp being killed in a hurdle event at the races, and Kildare in a jumping competition at the show. Scamp jumped his first hurdle at Albert Town; I believe; Kildare won his maiden at Cromwell many years ago. The show particularly excelled in draught horses and cattle.

The burning of the shed in which Mr Proudfoot's tramway cars were stored at night has caused no little sensation. Speculations about the origin have been more liberal than profound; even the newspapers have debated the question in their leading articles. The occurrence took place on Sunday morning last. The shed stood down on the reclaimed land below the railway station. On Saturday night the tram engines and cars were run down there as usual, and of course being Saturday night it would be late before all were in—probably midnight. One end of the shed, into which the tram rails ran, was almost entirely open; at any rate it had five big doorways. Seven engines and nearly 40 cars were thus put under cover. The place was left in the charge of a couple of men. About three o'clock these men say they were in a car having something to eat, when they smelt smoke, and going to look what was the matter, they were overpowered almost by smoke and flame and had to get out by the window—a story remarkably hard to swallow when there were five open doors! Then the building had no floor, and no partitions, so that fire had nothing but the walls and tram-cars to feed on, for the seven engines were not of highly-inflammable material; and, besides all this, there were several lengths of hose for use in washing down the cars. All the men would have had to do, if they had retained any presence of mind at all, would have been to turn on the hydrant. What these men were about is therefore hard to conceive. If they had said they were asleep in one of the cars, and woke up only to find everything ablaze, then their story would have been a trifle easier to swallow; but such as it is we have to be content with it. Of course the theory has been widely held that the fire was intentional; that someone who had a "down" on the proprietor—say a cabman, for instance—committed arson; but except that the fire did occur, not one single other fact has been brought forward to support such a view.

However, arson or no arson, the result was a terrible disaster, and the calamity is assuredly regarded as a public one. The trains were part and parcel of many a man and woman's daily life in Dunedin. Nothing was so easy and so convenient as to jump into a tram-car. The show and races had been held the week before, and they were very largely patronised. When the public woke up on the Sunday morning to hear that the cars were all destroyed, the first question was, Whatever will we do? On Sunday without the busy trains careering up and down the streets, the town looked quite deserted. The clergy in their sermons mentioned the fire, and positively prayed that the proprietor might recover his loss. When one remembers that not many months ago the clergy made very serious objections to the trains running on Sunday, it will be seen that the trains had become a thorough and recognised institution. Mr Proudfoot is a big loser by the affair, being insured only to within some £7000 or £8000 of the value of what was destroyed. The fire made a terrible wreck of everything; one could scarcely believe that flames would make so deplorable a mess of an engine. The enterprising proprietor did not long cry over the loss of spilt milk, for within a couple of days he had men at work on new cars, and by the holiday time he hopes to have everything in going order again.

The renowned pianist Ketten is not doing nearly so well as he ought to do in Dunedin. So far he has never had an audience of over 300 people. He is a miraculous performer—there is no other way of describing him. Camilla Ursø was wonderful on the violin; she made one aware that he had never heard the violin properly before. Ketten is comparatively a great deal more wonderful on the piano; he exhausts one's surprise and astonishment. He is a middling tall man, of the gaunt order of build, and he sits away from the piano a good distance in order to give his long arms full play. What he does with the instrument can't be described. "Johanner" that "spanked the grand pianist" couldn't hold a candle to him. He works it into a perfect fury, moving his arms like sledge-hammers, his whole body indeed, scalp and all, taking part in what he is doing; so that after he rises from a performance he looks and no doubt feels like one exhausted. Good gracious! how he does behave towards that piano! "Bang" goes Ketten and "whirr" goes the piano, until the lookers-on begin to wonder whether anything either of instrument or performer will be left to tell the tale. He delights in working up every note into a conglomeration of what, to an uneducated ear, seems something like eternal discord; then calming down, a single magic touch will reproduce divine harmony. The listener gets affected like the player, for as Ketten bangs and drives and rushes up and down the keyboard, sitting up almost in his chair, and doing his best to knock all the notes into one, the listener begins to feel his teeth setting and his back arching, as if he would like to be in at the death at least. Ketten gives one the notion that he has, and knows he has, the most perfect mastery over his instrument. It reminds you of Mayne Reid's wonderful stories of Indian feats of horsemanship more than anything else—of a man riding an animal full gallop at a precipice, for instance, and stopping him with a word at the brink. Hearing Ketten in some of his "fireworks," you would declare that never again would an instrument that was giving out such a fury of sound be tamed into emitting a quiet, low strain of music; but just when you are expecting everything to go to smash, the burst comes to an end, and the sweetest notes of the piano are brought out with a skill and delicacy that are enchanting. I don't believe anyone would be a bit astonished if some night Ketten succeeded in striking fire out of the piano—in fact, I am not sure that as it is sparks don't fly which cannot be seen in the gaslight.

The City Council have now got up their £1000 clock, which is a fitting completion to the extravagant Town Hall building. The chimes ring out their sweet music to the midnight air, etc., etc.; but people refuse to be charmed as they ought to be, especially the people who live close handy, who in point of fact declare that the chimes are an abominable nuisance.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN NEWS.

(By CABLE.)

(FROM DUNEDIN DAILEM.)

LONDON, December 7.

Mr Parnell has been presented with the freedom of the city of Waterford, Ireland.

At the wool sales to-day 5200 bales were offered—making a total of 92,500 bales catalogued since the opening. The tone of the sale is firm.

A serious riot took place at Brookborough, County Armagh, Ireland, owing to a land meeting held there being prohibited by the authorities. The Riot Act was read. Large bodies of police and dragoons were called out, when the rioters were dispersed.

WASHINGTON, December 7.

The President has made a recommendation to the Cabinet that General Grant should be appointed Commander-in-chief of the United States a post at present nominally filled by the President.

NEW YORK, December 7.

A project is on foot for the construction of a cable to be laid from San Francisco to Australia, via the Sandwich Islands.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 7.

Five Russian war-vessels stationed in the Pacific have sailed from different ports to Japan. The object of their mission has not yet transpired.

VIENNA, December 8.

The northern district of Croatia, in south-east Austria, which last month suffered so terribly from earthquakes, has been again visited by a severe shock, which has caused further damage to the town of Agram and its surroundings. The panic which previously prevailed amongst the inhabitants has been renewed with increasing intensity. The greatest consternation exists, and the gravest fears are entertained that further shocks of earthquakes may have a worse effect than any yet experienced.

CALCUTTA, December 8.

The Viceroy (the Marquis of Ripon), who had recovered from the fever which recently attacked him at Allahabad, north-west provinces, is now detained at that town by a serious sunstroke which he has received. His Excellency is completely prostrated, but his medical attendant gives hopes of his early recovery.

December 9.

Frequent telegrams have come to hand from Allahabad regarding the state of the Marquis of Ripon. The latest bulletin reports that his Excellency is rapidly recovering from the effect of sunstroke, and is now out of danger.

CAPE TOWN, December 9.

News is to hand from the seat of hostilities in Basutoland and the adjoining districts that, after several severe engagements between the Colonial forces and the tribes of Pondos, the latter have, owing to a succession of defeats, been utterly routed.

LONDON, December 9.

News has been received of another serious murderous outrage in Ireland. A bailiff, while executing a decree for the eviction of a tenant from a farm at Cookstown, in County Tyrone, was set upon by the tenant and a number of his sympathisers, and murdered by them before he could escape.

At the wool sales to-day 41000 bales were offered. There was more inquiry, but the demand was principally speculative. One thousand bales have been withdrawn from the sales since the opening of the auction.

December 10.

The Irish League has now instituted courts for the settlement of disputes between the landlords and the tenants on the land question.

A terrible colliery explosion occurred to-day at Pyrraig (sic), which has resulted in the death of over 90 miners who were in the pits at the time of the explosion.

News is to hand from South America that the Chilian in large force have landed at Pisca, on the Peruvian coast, and are rapidly advancing on Lima, the capital.

At the wool sales to-day 5600 bales were offered, making a total of 102,200 bales catalogued since the opening. The tone of the sale was firm.

December 11.

The wool auction closed to-day, 1190 bales being offered, making a total of 114,100 the sales catalogued since the opening. The tone of the sale showed a better demand for most descriptions.

Many persons will be pleased to learn that our former townsman, Mr Huxtable, who occupied a position in the Colonial Bank here, is likely to make his mark as a vocalist of high order. A recent number of the Lancester Examiner, in a notice of one of the Carandini concerts, says:—"Mr Huxtable's fine bass voice had been noticed in the glees and quartettes, and a request was sent in from the audience to favor them with a song, to which he responded with 'The Wolf,' given in a style that has never been equalled here; and there is not a doubt but what he will, with care, develop into a really first-class basso."

PROVINCIAL AND COLONIAL.

The clock in the new Town Hall in Dunedin is said to be the finest in the Australasian Colonies, and is certainly far superior to any other turret clock in New Zealand.

Mr Adams, M.H.R. for Nelson, is reputed to have made £16,000 in three months by the sudden rise in value of his mining shares—6000 in the United Alpine Company, and 4000 in the Golden Fleece.

Ned Kelly was the one hundred and thirty-first criminal executed in the Colony of Victoria. The first persons turned off were two Tasmanian aborigines known as "Bob Bob" and "Jack," for murder. Only one woman has undergone capital punishment, in the person of Elizabeth Scott, in November, 1863, for the slaying of her husband.

A gentleman who has just reached Dunedin from Sydney stated that it is intended to exhibit Miss Kate Kelly and her brother Jim throughout New Zealand and America. The entertainment is expected to comprise riding on their own horses, which they intend to take with them from place to place as an additional attraction.

"Mr Norton is recovering." This cablegram has reference to the case of the Dubbo magistrate shot by his paramour, particulars of which appeared in our supplement last week. There is no doubt that the bullet entered his skull; but what it injured, or where it finally lodged, is a mystery which even the doctors are not able to solve.

It will be remembered that some time back a tragedy occurred in San Francisco, in which J. C. Kalloch deliberately walked into the office of Mr. De Young, of the Chronicle office, and shot him dead. The murderer was subsequently tried for the offence, and the jury brought in a verdict of justifiable homicide, and the culprit was discharged from custody. So much for American justice.

Te Whiti, the Maori prophet, has expressed himself in a very decided manner respecting Tuhi. Te Whiti's words are: "I am in no way responsible. He must bear his own punishment, since he followed his own ways. I have always preached against bloodshed. My song is the song of peace. The Maori has bitten like a cur; let him die a cur."

In an article on Colonial Federation the Daily Times says that not until the whole political character of Victoria, from her leading public men down to her mob, entirely changes, or until she is completely outstripped in progress and outweighed in influence by the other colonies, as she surely will be—not until then will there be any substantial prospect of Australian Federation.

In the Tuapeka district the other day a man died in convulsions between nine and ten o'clock in the morning. At six o'clock the previous evening he had gone to bed in a state of intoxication, and he was in the habit of getting drunk on liquor sold at an up-country township hotel. Yet at an inquest held in regard to the manner of the man's death an intelligent and discriminating jury returned a verdict of "Died, by the visitation of God, from natural causes." In the face of all the facts this verdict is surely neither more nor less than a revolting piece of blasphemy.—N. O. Times.

Death, the great leveller, has removed another of Greymouth's earliest inhabitants, if not the earliest settler on the West Coast of New Zealand: we (Grey River Argus) allude to the venerable Maori chief Tainui, who died on Tuesday, 28th ult. The old chief was nearly 80 years of age, and may be regarded as the last of the purely Maori race on the West Coast. The old man must have been a fine stalwart savage in his early days, and until recently he was hale and hearty, but within the last few months he became stone blind. The old chief was buried in the Maori cave in the limestone rock, at the head of Mawhera Quay. The body was enclosed in a zinc coffin with a glass face, through which the old warrior can be seen.

The following instance of pluck and forethought is from the Inangahua Times of Wednesday:—"An incident which, owing to the presence of mind and pluck of one of the men concerned, fortunately did not result in any serious consequence, occurred in the Energetic mine on Monday. It appears that the rope in the winding-shaft is out of repair rendering it dangerous to descend in the cage, which has been the usual custom. The men have therefore been ordered to go down to their work by means of ladders, which are erected for a distance of about 200ft in a small shaft used for the purpose of access to the lower part of the mine. As the day shift was going down the ladders, the candle, carried by the topmost man, Richard Charles, burnt his hand, and caused him to let go his hold and tumble down the shaft. The next man, about 20ft below him, hearing the scramble of Charles attempting to regain his hold of the ladder, instantaneously mastered the situation, and, at immense risk to himself, threw his own body across the shaft in such a manner as to stop the further descent of him. Being a big and powerful man, he succeeded in his plucky attempt and prevented the falling man from passing him. Had not this been effected, the mishap would in all probability have resulted not only in the annihilation of Charles, but would also have caused the destruction of five or six others below him, who would not have been able to withstand the force of the increased momentum, but would have been swept off the ladder and precipitated to the bottom, about 180ft. As it was, the intrepidity of Hawkins saved the lot, and he escaped himself, as did Charles, with only a few scratches."

THE "UNEMPLOYED."

The Government are going in the right direction in reducing the rate of allowance given to the "unemployed," but we hope they will soon be able to go a step further and invite those gentrified to enter altogether for themselves. Of all the numerous ills under which this country has suffered of late years, the "unemployed" cry has been one of the most serious. Founded nominally on the allegation that the Government had brought out a number of men to starve, it derived the greatest part of its strength from the fact that the country was infested from end to end by a class of "loafers." Directly, from a variety of causes, work began to be scarce, the Government was at once appealed to, and the demand for work was accompanied by the demand for high wages. We venture to say there is hardly another country in the world where such a thing could happen. In any really industrious country, such as France, where it is not always easy to get a living even by hard work, the mere fact of being unemployed would stamp a man as bad character, whom society would have to look after in quite another sense from that of maintaining him in idleness. In America the unemployed are very numerous and very troublesome, but they certainly are not encouraged by the State. They are there known and treated as "tramps," and have a precious hard life of it. They contrive to get a subsistence out of the charitable, the weak, and the timid, somehow or other; but they have to mind what they are about in the pursuit of that object. If they attempted to demand anything from the public as a right, they would simply be told to work or starve. In countries where the struggle for existence is even keener than in the United States, as for instance in China, a meeting of unemployed would be promptly terminated by the decapitation of the chairman and leading speakers, and the unpaid employment of the rest on public works of a singularly laborious kind. Where one man's idleness means starvation for somebody, idleness is not regarded favorably. In this curious, plentiful, illogical country, though, the case is quite different. Here anybody who likes may be idle. Have we not seen thousands who were quite able to work if they chose, band themselves together and say, "Oh, we are unemployed. We don't mean to get our own living. You other people must keep us as well as yourselves. We know you are too soft to let us want. Besides, you are afraid of us. You don't know what we may do next. We can make ourselves such a nuisance that you will be glad to get rid of us on any terms." And were they not perfectly right? Of course they were. It was just the old story of the sturdy beggar and the tender-hearted old lady over again on a large scale. The beggar solicited the old lady to give him half-a-crown, and assured her in a hollow voice that if she did not he would be obliged to do something desperate. The old lady, frightened out of her wits for the poor creature's soul and body, hastened to hand over the half-crown, and then said, "But what would you have done? Do tell me what you would have done if I had not relieved you?" "Why, mum," the fellow replied, "if the wust'd come to the wust, I spects I should have 'ad to work." The unemployed would have had to work if the Government and the public had not come so promptly to their relief. As a matter of fact a great many of them, after trying the "unemployed" dodge for a time, and fearing that the Government did not mean to give them anything, actually did take work at low wages, with the most satisfactory results. Had the low scale of Government wages and the piecework system been adopted from the first, the real idlers would have been choked off, and the seeds of pauperism would have been destroyed before they could germinate. The ringleaders of the outcry were quite well known to be thorough rascallions. Many of them were under the eye of the police. The very way which they went about their business was sufficient to stamp them for what they were. * * * * * It is a disgrace to this vigorous, wealthy young country that, with its soil not a tenth part tilled, and its boundless resources scarcely touched, its people should rush to charity, soup-kitchens and Government aid before the first breath of poverty. If such a spirit had prevailed among the early settlers in Otago and Canterbury, we wonder what would have become of them. They would have died of starvation to a man, and left their splendid acquisition a heritage to some braver and truer-hearted race. It behoves the Government and everybody else who studies the best interests of the country to do all in their power to prevent as far as possible a repetition of the events of the last two winters; and the first effort in that direction should be the termination at the earliest possible moment of the present arrangements for maintaining the unemployed.—Daily Times.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Notable Facts.—Intense heat augments the annoyances of skin disease and encourages the development of febrile disorders; they should, as they can, be removed by these detergent and purifying preparation. In stomach complaints, liver affections, pains and spasms of the bowels, Holloway's unguent well rubbed over the affected part immediately gives the greatest ease, prevents congestion and inflammation, checks the threatening diarrhoea and averts incipient cholera. The poorer inhabitants of large cities will find these remedies to be their best friend when any pestilence rages, or when from unknown causes eruptions, boils, abscesses, or ulcerations point out the presence of taints or injuries within the system, and call for instant and effective curative medicines.

IMPORTANT TO FLOCK-MASTERS ! !COOPER'S SHEEP DIPPING POWDER

IS THE CHEAPEST AND BEST.

It dissolves in Cold Water, and should be used in preference to any other Dip.

FORTICKS, LICE, SCAB,
AND FOR ALL OTHER SHEEP-DIPPING PURPOSES.

This Dip has been in use upwards of 30 years, and has never been equalled by any other; it is of uniform strength, requires no boiling or hot water, does not stain the wool, and is equally good as a Summer and Winter Dip. It is especially recommended as a certain cure for Scab, and is thoroughly adapted to all the requirements of Colonial Sheep-owners.

Testimonial from JAMES ALEXANDER, Esq., WANGANUI, New Zealand.

To Mr W. COOPER, M.R.C.V.S.

"Four years ago a merchant in Wanganui, New Zealand, had eight cases of your Sheep Dipping Powder, which he asked me to buy. Not having used it before, I hesitated to try it on a large scale, so I took a few packets, and dissolved them according to your directions, and filled my dipping bath, which is about 6 ft deep. I then selected some old Ewes for the experiment, caring but little whether I killed them or not. I made them jump into the bath, and those that did not go over the head in the liquid were pushed under by a man with a stick. I allowed them to remain in the dip about the time you prescribe, and then let them walk out, which, by the construction of our bath, they were enabled to do. They stood on the dipping board until dry, and were then turned out to grass; and not one of them was injured in the least. This experiment proved to me that your Dipping Powder could be used with safety on a large scale, so I purchased the eight cases of Powder already referred to, and dipped my whole flock, numbering 10,000 sheep, in the same way, and did not lose one. I dipped for Lice, which had been very bad in my flock for years; and I have now got entirely clear of them through the use of your Powder. I still dip every year, as I think your preparation fosters the growth of Wool. I have not seen your Dip tried for Scab, but have been told by my neighbors that it is as good for Scab as it is for Lice."

"After the effectual cure of my flock, the demand for your Powder became great, and orders were sent to Melbourne and other places where it could be got, and the merchant before spoken of got shipments from England, as you must be quite aware."

"I have dipped over 60,000 sheep with it, and never lost but one, and that one was seen licking itself just after it left the bath. I have no difficulty in dipping 1000 to 1200 in the day of eight hours with three men. I consider that with ordinary care your Dipping Powder is as safe on a large scale in the Colonies as it is with the small flocks in England. The chief point to mind is that the sheep are quite dry before they are turned out to grass."

DUNSTAN BREWERYCOLONIAL WINE AND CORDIAL
MANUFACTORY,
MONTE CHRISTO, CLYDE.

J. D. FERAUD

Takes the present opportunity of informing the residents of the Northern Goldfields and the general public that his factory being replete with every convenience, he is now turning out an article not to be equalled. Mr Feraud has succeeded in producing which are not only agreeable beverages, but also have excellent medicinal qualities. The following is Professor Black's report:

AROMATIC TONIC BITTER WINES,

"University, Dunedin, Otago, N.Z.

"Class—Beverages.

"November 5, 1875.

"I have examined for Mr J. D. Feraud, of Monte Christo, Clyde, Otago, two samples of Aromatic Tonic Bitters, with the following result:—No. 827 is a sherry colored, and No. 828 is a port wine red colored liquid; they are both perfectly transparent, showing the purity of the water and other substances employed in their manufacture.

"These two beverages have a slight acid chemical reaction, and possess an agreeable cool bitter taste, blended with a sensation of sweetness, arising from the saccharine matter of the fruit of which they are the fermented extract.

"I have also examined the aromatic and other flavoring substances used by Mr Feraud in their manufacture, and from the proportions in which they are blended with the fruit wine, they must be pronounced perfectly safe, and free from anything like deleterious properties.

"I consider these wines, therefore, an agreeable and perfectly safe beverage, and when diluted with three or four times their bulk of water, they will make a good cooling summer drink.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

Impurity of the Blood.—Entitled Existence.

This medicine embraces every attribute required in a general and domestic remedy; it overturns the foundation of disease laid by defective food and impure air. In obstruction or congestion of the liver, lungs, bowels, or any other organs, these Pills are especially serviceable and eminently successful. They should be kept in readiness in every family, being a medicine of incomparable utility for young persons, particularly to those of feeble constitutions.

Biliousness, Loss of Appetite, Headache and Lowness of Spirits.

These Pills effect a truly wonderful change in debilitated constitutions, as they create a healthy appetite, correct indigestion, remove excess of bile, and overcome giddiness, headache, and palpitation of the heart.

Mothers and Daughters.

If there is one thing more than another for which these pills are famous it is their purifying properties, especially their power of cleansing the blood from all impurities, removing dangerous congestions, and renewing suspended secretions. Universally adopted as the one grand remedy for female complaints, these Pills never fail, never weaken the system, and always bring about what is required.

Nervous Debility.

Persons who feel weak, low, and nervous, may rest assured some serious ailment is looming in the distance, against which instant action should be taken. These renowned Pills present the ready means of exciting energetic action on the liver, liberating accumulated bile, and lifting at once a load from the spirits and expelling a poison from the body.

Indigestion, Stomach, and Liver Complaints.

Persons suffering from any disorders of the liver, stomach, or other organs of digestion, should have immediate recourse to these Pills as there is no medicine known that acts on these particular complaints with such certain success.

Holloway's Pills are the best Remedy known in the world for the following diseases:—

Ague	Inflammation
Asthma	Jaundice
Bilious Complaints	Liver Complaints
Blotches on the Skin	Lumbago
Bowel Complaints	Piles
Colics	Rheumatism
Constipation of the Bowels	Retention of Urine
Consumption	Scorf, or King's Evil
Debility	Sore Throats
Dropsey	Stone and Gravel
Dysentery	Secondary Symptoms
Erysipelas	Tic Doloroux
Female Irregularities	Tumours
Fever of all kinds	Ulcers
Fits	Venereal Affections
Gout	Worms of all kinds
Headache	Weakness, from what ever cause
Indigestion	&c. &c. &c.

Each Pot and Box of the Genuine Medicines bears the British Government Stamp, with the words "Holloway's Pills and Ointment, London," engraved thereon.

On the label is the address, 533, Oxford street, London, where alone they are manufactured.

Beware of all Compounds styled

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT

With a "New York" Label.

"Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime;
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time."

THE above is read with great interest by thousands of young men. It inspires them with HOPE; for, in the bright lexicon of youth, there is no such word as fail. Alas! say many, this is correct—is true with regard to the youth who has never abused his strength and to the man who has not been "passion's slave."

But to that youth, to that man—who has wasted his vigor who has yielded himself up to the temporary sweet allurements of vice, who has given unbridled license to his passions—to him the above lines are but as a reproach. What HOPE can he have? What aspirations? What chance of leaving his footprints on the sands of time? For him, alas! there is nought but dark despair and self-reproach for a lost life.

For a man to leave his footprints on the sands of time he must be endowed with a strong brain and nervous power. He must possess a sound, vigorous, healthy mind in a healthy body—the power to conceive, the energy to execute! But look at our Australian youth! See the emaciated form, the vacant look, the listless hesitating manner, the nervous distrust, the senseless, almost idiotic expression. Note his demeanour and conversation, and then say, Is that a man to leave his footprints on the sands of time?

Do parents, medical men and educators of youth pay sufficient attention to this subject? Do they ever ascertain the cause of this decay; and having done so, do they (as a strict sense of duty demands) seek the skilled advice of the medical man, who has made this branch of his profession his particular speciality, whose life has been devoted to the treatment of these cases? Reader, what is your answer? Let each one answer for himself. Parents see their progeny fading gradually before their sight; see them become emaciated old-young men, broken down in health, enfeebled, unfit for the battle of life. Yet one word might save them, one sound and vigorous health-giving letter from a medical man, habituated to the treatment and continuous supervision of such cases, would, in most instances, succeed in warding off the impending doom of a miserable and gloomy future, and, by appropriate treatment, restore the enervated system to its natural vigor, and ensure a joyous and happy life.

Dr. L. L. SMITH, of Melbourne, has made the diseases of youth and those arising therefrom his peculiar study. His whole professional life has been especially devoted to the treatment of Nervous affections and the Diseases incidental to Married Life. His skill is available to all—no matter how many hundreds or thousands of miles distant. His system of correspondence by letter is now so well organised and known that comment would be superfluous (by this means many thousands of patients have been cured whom he has never seen and never known); and it is carried on with such judicious supervision that though he has been practising this branch of his profession for 26 years in these colonies, no single instance of accidental discovery has ever yet happened. When Medicines are required, these are forwarded in the same careful manner, without a possibility of the contents of the parcels being discovered. Plain and clear directions accompany these latter, and a cure is effected without even the physician knowing who is his patient.

To Men and Women with Broken-down Constitutions, the Nervous, the Debilitated and all suffering from any Disease whatever, Dr. L. L. SMITH'S plan of treatment commends itself, avoiding, as it does, the inconvenience and expense of a personal visit.

Address—

THE DOG REGISTRATION ACT.

As the provisions of the Dog Registration Act, which comes into force on the 1st day of January next, differ essentially from those of previous enactments, which are repealed by the new Act, it will serve a useful purpose to refer to its more important features. It will be perceived that the penalties are much heavier than hitherto, and owners of dogs will consequently require the greatest vigilance in complying with the requirements of the amended law. Any person keeping a dog of greater age than six months for a fortnight without registration will be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 above the fee payable. Registrations in any part of the colony will be sufficient throughout the whole of New Zealand, and in a case of a change of ownership of dogs all that is necessary is that the name of the new owner be inserted by the Registrar, and that of the former one erased. In all proceedings under the Act the proof of registration and of the age of dog is cast upon the defendant. Dogs not registered may be destroyed, and every day's neglect on the part of the owner to obey an order of the court that a dangerous dog be destroyed will render him liable to a penalty of 20s. Allowing dangerous dogs to be at large unmuzzled subjects owners to a fine of 40s; and the animal may be destroyed by any officer of the police. The provision having reference to being attacked by dogs, or horses being frightened by such, will be very welcome to the numerous persons who have suffered from the dog nuisance. For attacking any person or frightening any horse the owner of a dog may be fined £5 for every case, above the damage occasioned by the dog, and any person may destroy the same without being answerable for damages occasioned thereby.

Dogs running at large amongst sheep may be destroyed without its being necessary to prove mischievous propensity in the dog. There are heavy penalties for using counterfeit labels or otherwise fraudulently evading the Act. The penalty for using counterfeit label may be as high as £20; and for using an obsolete label not exceeding £5. All penalties are recoverable in a summary manner.

A BONY SUBJECT.

"What are the facts in this case, doctor?" asked the magistrate of Dr Busby.

"Why, you see," said the doctor, "Jones, the coroner here, yesterday discovered a lot of old bones in the cellar of a stable which was torn down. Being a little hungry for fees, he determined to hold an inquest, and he sent for me to get a professional opinion. They were the bones of a horse, but, when I got there, Jones had them laid out on the ground in something like the form of a man; and when I remonstrated with him, he said they certainly were the bones of a man, and he was under a solemn obligation to hold an inquest."

"You say," asked the justice, "that they did not resemble the bones of a human being?"

"Well, he had one leg made out all right, but when I called his attention to the fact that the bone of the other leg ran clean up through the body and stuck out eight inches beyond the top of the skull, he said the man may have been peculiar, he may have been deformed. He said he had an aunt whose leg bone projected so far from her head that she had to let a hole in the top of her bonnet."

"Did he produce the said aunt?"

"No. And when I showed him that the right arm had three elbows, while the left contained no joint of any kind, and looked like the breast bone of a chicken, he said there was a man in Peru who had eight elbows, and that his oath as coroner did not oblige him to account for all the phenomenal freaks of nature."

"Had the remains any other elbows about it anywhere?" asked the justice.

"Not unless you count the joint in the middle of the back. The coroner had the horse's hind leg inserted just below the man's shoulders. A real man, you know, built in that way could knock the back of his head against the buttons of his coat-tails, and I doubt if he could keep from turning back somersaults most of his time."

"You say the coroner was not impressed with these views?"

"No, sir; he allowed that the man may have been a circus actor, and have had a hinge put in his back on purpose. But when I pointed out that the man had a row of teeth in his shinbone, and that some of them were as big as a walnut, and showed him that for a man to attempt to eat his meals with his shins, or for him to have a toothache near to his toes, was in violent antagonism to all precedent, as well as to the ascertained facts about human physiology, he said the man's teeth may have been shifted by disease or something, and maybe that was what killed him. He said his grandmother knew a man whose teeth slid down and began to grow upon his ribs, with fatal results."

"Had he his grandmother's affidavit to that effect?"

"He neglected to produce it if he had. The skeleton's left foot was composed of the horse's breastbone. It looked as much like a foot as a clothes pin looks like the Goddess of Liberty, and as the other foot was made up of about three feet of the animal's spinal column, while the neck was formed of the horse's upper jaw, I remonstrated strenuously with the coroner."

"What did he say?"

"Why, he said that kind of a man was the kind, generally speaking, that was put together in the Garden of Eden, and while I might think I could get up a better one, he wouldn't trust me to tack together an idol for an Indian, or words to that effect. So I replied, and then he hit me with the horse's fibula. I retaliated with the tibia, and in about two seconds he had heaved all the skeleton at me that I hadn't heaved at him. Then he winked at the jury, and it suddenly brought in a verdict of "death from cause or causes unknown," and then I had him arrested for assault and battery."

The magistrate held the coroner in bonds to appear at court, and when that functionary had given the bond, he moved off to collect his fees for the inquest.

DEATH OF THE BEARDED LADY.

A celebrated woman was buried at Liverpool, a little village on the shores of the Onondaga Lake, on September 12th. This was none other than the famous bearded woman Barnum, years ago advertised as his greatest curiosity. The great showman placed her on exhibition at his museum at New York. Like all curiosities, the time came when she was no longer attractive, and she retired from public gaze, and not long afterwards became a resident of Liverpool. She lived in that village up to the time of her death, which occurred on Friday. The maiden name of this woman was Rebecca Westgate. She was born at Pembroke, Gensee County, New York, in 1824. When she was quite young her parents removed to Odensburg, where she remained till 1841. In the meantime she had married a man named J. A. Lyon, and in this year she removed with him to New York, where she remained till 1868. Nothing unusual in the life or person of Mrs Lyon had been observed till she had reached her forty-fourth year, and then a heavy, dark beard suddenly began to appear upon her face. Her features had nothing masculine in their appearance and she was greatly embarrassed by the growth upon her face. She employed various means of removing the fast-growing beard, but without avail, and it was not long before it reached her waist. It was soft and silken, like the hair of a child. Barnum learnt of her, and sought to induce her to enter his museum, and become its great attraction. She was reluctant to make an engagement, but the showman was persistent, and her friends favored the proposition so strongly that she consented to do so, and for several months attracted crowds of people. A suit was instituted against Barnum for an alleged imposition on the public, it being stated in the complaint that the woman was an impostor. It was currently believed at the time that the suit was brought at Barnum's investigation for advertising purposes. After Barnum's museum was consumed by fire, Mrs Lyon became one of the attractions of Colonel Ward's museum in Chicago, and was the wonder of that city for some time. She went from Chicago to a museum in Boston, and a little later became engaged with Forepaugh's circus, with which she travelled over the United States and Canada. While in Canada an order for her arrest was issued by a civil officer, who declared she was imposing upon the credulity of the people of that country, and not until a resident of the place in which she was stepped forward and declared that she was just what she appeared to be was the order rescinded. Mrs Lyon was of a modest and retiring name. Her age was 56.

"If I ever used any unkind words, Hannah," said Mr Smiley, reflectively, "I take them all back." "Yes, I suppose you want to use them over again," was the not very soothing reply.

BILLIARDS EXTRAORDINARY.

Bell's Life of September 26 has the following:—"Mitchell, the 'new man,' has eclipsed all previous performances on an English billiard table. On Thursday night he gave a well-known amateur and supporter 1500 start in a match of 2000 up in Bond-street, Brighton, before a fair sprinkling of spectators, the table having been specially erected for Mitchell's practice by Messrs Thurston, of Catherine-street. Mr R. Topping, his opponent, gave a miss, and next made an attempt at a cannon, but failed, Mitchell following with a break of 50, and subsequently 108, composed of 36 spot hazards. By this time Mr Topping had strung together 10, and at his subsequent stroke Mitchell holed the red, and went for his position behind the spot. Amidst breathless excitement he continued to hold the cue until he had pocketed the red 612 times, the break, which left him within two of game, realising 1839, the largest number ever made at English billiards. On reaching 1000, Mitchell felt a little nervous and dwelt for quite a minute until the burst of cheering with which he was hailed had passed. But he afterwards darted the red home, time after time like lightning, and often had no occasion to leave his ball, the strong back twist keeping him in position eight or nine times successively. Three or four times he got too near the cushion, but went round the table and obtained his place again with marvellous precision. Mr Topping played another shot, but only handled his cue three times, Mitchell getting the required three points in his next essay, and winning the match in the wonderful time of 1h 35min.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

M. Louis Payes, a well-known Frenchman, left a pocket-book containing £40,000 in one of the Paris railway waiting-rooms. A reward of £1,000 produced the return of the pocket-book and its contents.

The well-known firm of shipbuilders, Messrs John Elder and Co., of Glasgow, have just come in for a slice of good luck. They have recently finished the Czar's new yacht, the Livadia, which is fitted up in the most luxurious style, and owing to the high rate of speed attained by it during her official trials the Czar, in addition to the contract price, has very generously presented the builders with a cheque for £40,000.

The Rev. Mr Husband, incumbent of St Michael's, Folkestone, being troubled by members of his congregation dropping buttons, counter sovereigns &c., into his offertory bags, nailed a piece of cardboard on his church door, on which was fastened the articles which were substituted by his congregation for coins of the realm, and preached a sermon on the subject flowing over with invective. The next Sunday every button and brass sovereign deposited in the collecting bags had a piece of black thread to it, ready for hanging on the door.

While a man was delivering the beef for the lions and other members of the carnivores of Cole's Circus in Wellington, an accident was prevented only by the ready activity of two of the circus riders. The lions smelt the horse and commenced roaring, whereupon the horse, a very powerful one, over 16 hands high, immediately began trembling all over and then to plunge very violently. The two men, aided by the driver, immediately sprang to the horse's head just in time to stop the animal, now strongly maddened with fear, and for a few minutes no one could tell whether the men could hold the animal or not, but at last they got the horse away.

The trial of Sergeant William Marshman, on charges of fraud as a marker at the Wimbledon competition was concluded on September 16th, at Gosport. The Deputy-Judge Advocate having summoned up the evidence, the court was cleared for deliberation. After an interval of 12 minutes the court resumed, when Major Blake announced that the finding of the court was a verdict of "Not guilty" of the charges. Sergeant Marshman's ssash and sword were then handed to him, and he was ordered to return to his duties at once. There was some applause outside the court on the finding being made known.

A curious story is related in the Mortlake Despatch. According to that journal "a few years ago a man died in the neighborhood whose career had been a most eventful one. When in the old country he married early, and was soon afterwards compelled to leave his country for his country's good, and at his country's expense. His wife remained behind until she could earn enough to follow and as soon as possible came to Victoria with the hope of meeting and rejoining her husband. When she arrived in Melbourne she heard that her husband was dead, and years afterwards she married again. With her second husband she came to the neighborhood of Terang, and there, to her amazement, she found her first husband living and well. Mutual explanations followed, and, finding that she had been faithful until his reported death, they all agreed to live together. For years these three persons with their children lived and loved in the same house. There were no quarrels, and everything appeared satisfactory and she became the mother of 21 children. At length death entered the hut, and carried off husband No. 1. Strange to say, they both sincerely mourned his death, and now the surviving couple live together in peace and contentment, surrounded by their happy, though numerous family."

"Your charge against Mr Barker, the artist here," said the magistrate, "is assault and battery, I believe?"
"Yes, sir."
"And your name is—"
"Potts! I am art critic of the Weekly Spy."
"State your case."

"I called at Mr Barker's studio upon his invitation to see his great picture, just finished, of 'George Washington cutting down the Cherry Tree with his Hatchet.' Mr Barker was expecting to sell it to Congress for 50,000dols. He asked me what I thought of it, and after I had pointed out his mistake in making the handle of the hatchet quite as thick as the tree, and in turning the head of the hatchet around so that George was cutting the tree down with the hammer end, I asked him why he foreshortened George's leg so as to make it look as if his left foot was upon the mountain on the other side of the river."

"Did Mr Barker take it kindly?" asked the justice."

"Well, he looked a little glum, that's all. And then when I asked him why he put a guinea-pig up in the tree, and why he painted the guinea-pig with horns, he said that it was not a guinea-pig, but a cow, and that it was not in the tree but in the background. Then I said that if I had been painting George Washington I should not have given him the complexion of a salmon brick; I should not have given him two thumbs to each hand, and I should have tried not to slew his right eye around so that he could see around the back of his head to his left ear. And Barker said, 'Oh, you wouldn't, would you?' sarcastically, your honor. And I said, 'No, I wouldn't, and I wouldn't have painted oak leaves on a cherry tree, and I wouldn't have left the spectator in doubt as to whether the figure off by the woods was a factory chimney, or a steam-boat, or Geo. Washington's father taking a smoke.'

"Which was it?" asked the magistrate.

"I don't know. Nobody will ever know. So Barker asked me what I'd advise him to do. And I told him I thought his best chance was to abandon the Washington idea and to fix the thing up somehow to represent the 'Boy who stood on the Burning Deck.' I told him he might paint the grass red to represent the flames, and dash over the tree so it would look like the mast, and pull George's foot to the side of the river so it would rest somewhere on the burning deck; and maybe he might re-construct that factory chimney, or whatever it was, and make it the captain, while he could arrange the guinea-pig to do for the captain's dog."

"Did he agree?"

"He said the idea didn't strike him. So then I suggested that he might turn it into Columbus discovering America. Let George stand for Columbus, and the tree be turned into a native, and the hatchet made to answer for a flag, while the mountain in the back ground would answer for the rolling billows on the ocean. He said he'd be hanged if it should. So I mentioned that it might, perhaps, pass for the execution of Mary, Queen of Scots. Put George in black for the headsman, bend over the tree and put a frock on it for Mary, let the hatchet stand, and work in the guinea-pig and the factory chimney as mourners. But Barker said that there would be somebody worse hurt than Mary, Queen of Scots, if I kept on."

"Didn't like it, hey?"

"I suppose not. And I said that, while I did not want to force my advice upon him, I would say, if my opinion was asked, that the best hope of that picture would be to make it a representation of the Deluge. Build in an ark around George, put a shirt on him, and call him Noah, crowd in other animals with the guinea-pig, let the factory chimney do for Mount Ararat, and the tree for the stovepipe projecting from the roof of the ark. Just as I had got the words out of my mouth Barker knocked me clean through the picture. My head tore out Washington's near leg, and my right foot carried away about four miles of the river. We had it over and over on the floor for a while, and finally Barker whipped. I am going to take the law of him in the interests of justice and high art."

So Barker was bound over, and Mr Potts went down to the office of the Spy to write up his criticism.

At Flemington this year it was computed that the dresses and other garments worn by the fair sex cost over the enormous sum of £1,000,000.

The Sydney Daily Telegraph tells the following uncanny story:—"A gentleman travelling to Muttburra lately met with a rather curious and decidedly thrilling adventure. On reaching the Twelve-mile Dam, Mount Cornish, he felt thirsty, and got off his horse to have a drink. There is a large root projecting over the water, and on this he laid himself out. A dark object in the water attracted his attention, and thinking from the stench which pervaded the place, it was the carcass of a bullock, he gave it a push with his hand, when the object turned over, and to the wayfarer's horror displayed the distorted features of a drowned man. He did not stop to examine the body minutely, and his thirst suddenly left him. The only clothing the body had on was a shirt, and nothing was found that could lead to identification. It was in an advanced state of decomposition."

SANDER & SONS'
EUCALYPTI EXTRACT.

UNDER the Distinguished Patronage of His Majesty the King of Italy, at Rome

Dr Cruikshank, health officer for the City of Sandhurst, certifies to the extract being the most reliable remedy for external inflammation, bronchitis, diphtheria, affections of the lungs, chest, all pains of rheumatic nature, neuralgia, &c.; all swellings, bruises, sprains, wounds, disorder of the bowels, diarrhoea, &c.

Dr McEler, professor at the University of Greifswalde, reports astonishing cures of diphtheria, Asthma, and affections of the respiratory organs, by inhalations of the EUCALYPTI EXTRACT (Berliner klinische Wochenschrift, November 21st, 1879.)

Epitome of declaration made before M. Cohen, Esq., J.P., at Sandhurst, October, 1877:—The son of Mr Raabe was hurt with an axe on the knee. After nine weeks' medical treatment it was declared necessary by Dr Macgillivray to amputate the injured limb. At that juncture the extract was applied, and the wound speedily cured without amputation.

The daughter of Mr Junghenn, suffering from disease of the bone, as pronounced by Drs Boyd and Atkinson, was cured just as speedily. Cures of whooping cough, very severe colds, bronchitis, croup, diphtheria, earache, pains in the head (neuralgia), inflammation of the eyes, and that of a severely injured foot, others of bad legs, wound on the with enormous swelling, of severe bruises and a sprained ankle (H. Brown), in which case eight months' medical advice was of no avail, are reported by the Donald Times, Newcastle Morning Herald, Cooktown Courier, Yorke's Peninsula Advertiser, and others.

The Extract is proved to be the most reliable medicine to check inflammation, which accounts for the cures referred to. It is the surest curative agent and preventative of contagion in scarlet, typhoid, and intermittent fever. For particulars see testimonials accompanying each bottle.

Sold only by H. Hotop, Cromwell.

CAUTION!

Do not confound SANDER and SONS' EUCALYPTI EXTRACT with the common Eucalyptus Oil a resinous preparation, used for mechanical purposes and in most cases injurious, by reason of the blistering and drawing tendencies pertaining to turpentine substances; it is easily distinguished by its weak smell and leaving after use a sticky matter wholly foreign to a volatile Extract. Therefore ask for SANDER and SONS' EUCALYPTI EXTRACT in vials with our label and secured by a pink wrapper and green band bearing our signature and address.
